South Koreans Chase Reds Toward Parallel

ROK TROOPS SPEARHEAD ALLIED DRIVE

Tokyo, March 19—(P)—South Korean troops swam the chilly Chongchon river in central Korea today in pursuit of Communist forces pulling back toward the 38th parallel.

The Republic of EREA (ROK) soldiers were spearheading the central front drive of the U. S. Eighth Army which has set up strong forces in a holding line only 17 miles south of the politically sensitive parallel.

"There was no stopping those ROK troops," said a military spokesman. They swam the cold river rather than wait for boats to ferry them across in the northward drive.

The same ROK troops trapped and annihilated a Chinese Communist battalion Sunday.

The ROKs captured a battery of 5-MM. howitzers, several mortars and rifles, and large quantities of ammunition.

It was the first action of any size along the Korean front in 83 days.

U. S. jet pilots Monday killed and wounded 300 of 1,500 Reds concentrated in the village of Kaupong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul. They also reported damaging a tank in the town west of Chunchon, once the central Chinese command headquarters south of the 38th parallel and now apparently abandoned.

A. U. S. armored patrol rolling north from Seoul threw back an enemy platoon that attacked it 10 miles south of the parallel on the western front.

On the eastern front, Allied patrols probing within a few miles of the 38th parallel moved northward against Red small arms and mortar fire.

The army, breaking a three-day silence, announced "holding elements are 17 miles from the 38th parallel at five points." It did not locate the points and said it would not. Holding elements presumably are capable of holding their ground against heavy attack.

The brief announcement said patrols were operating "miles north" of the five points and in all other sectors. It did not say how many miles.

Parallel 38, which cuts across Korea about in the center, has been an arbitrary dividing line between communist north and Republic south Korea since the end of World War II.

Gov. Fine Ready to Unveil Budget That May Run Well Over Billion Dollars Today

Harrisburg, March 19—(P)—Gov. John S. Fine unveils his 1951-53 state budget today—a budget that may run well over one billion dollars.

A joint session of the general assembly was called for late afternoon to hear an outline of the governor's proposed spending program for the next two years.

Fine gave house and senate Republican leaders a private peek at the budget message last night. They declared afterwards through a spokesman they were in "full accord" with its provisions.

The spokesman said also that the budget message will confine itself to spending recommendations. No mention will be made of taxes needed to finance the expenditures.

Instead, Fine will deliver a special tax message, probably Wednesday, in which he will outline his financing recommendations, the spokesman said.

He said this move is intended to give the governor time for one more conference with his legislative leaders on the question of taxes. It is estimated that at least $120,000,000 in new taxes will be needed in the next two years to meet higher state costs.

Fine said last night after a tax conference that he is leaning toward the imposition on a flat income tax as a means of raising more revenue.

This is the second type of taxing possibility that Fine has mentioned directly. He previously said he is considering an increase in the four per cent corporate net income tax. He said last night he still favors that possibility.

Tax experts have estimated that a flat income levy at the rate of one-half of one per cent would produce about $120,000,000 during the 1951-53 biennium.

A one per cent increase in the corporate net income tax would return an estimated $44,000,000.

Other taxes reportedly under consideration by Fine are a general sales tax, excluding food, and a gross receipts tax.

Meanwhile, the governor was reported considering a big reduction in the state's institutional construction program for the next two years as an economy measure.

The construction program, as submitted originally to the governor, the report said, included $132,000,000 for mental hospitals, and $23,000,000 for penal institutions. The program was instituted by former Gov. James H. Duff under his social welfare betterment plan.

Introduction of the budget is expected to speed up legislative activity. So far, both houses have marked time until they find out how much money will be available the next two years.

LABOR COMMITTEE STUDIES TERMS FOR RETURNING TO BOARD

Washington, March 19—(P)—The United Labor Policy Committee (ULPC) takes another look today at its terms for returning to active participation in the government's mobilization set-up.

The committee, made up of 14 of the nation's top labor leaders, meets to study again the compromise plan of Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston for reestablishing the Wage Stabilization Board.

The board has been inoperative for more than a month. The three labor members walked out in protest against a ceiling on wage levels ten per cent above Jan. 15, 1950. They acted at the direction of the ULPC, which includes the AFL, CIO and non-operating rail unions.

LEARN OF FIRE IN HOME VIA TELEVISION

Pittsburgh, March 19—(P)—Imagine going to a neighbor's place to watch television, then hearing the program interrupted to tell you to go home—because your house is on fire.

That's what happened to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stengel last night. Knowing the couple was viewing TV in one of the nearby homes, other neighbors called station WDTV when they saw the Stengel house aflame. The station interrupted its program and broadcast the message. The Stengels ran home to find the fire under control and their young son, Thomas, safe.

Crawford Veterans Clubs Are Raided

Meadville, March 19—(P)—Week-end raids by State Liquor Control Board agents on two Crawford county veterans' clubs brought the arrest of several officers and confiscation of liquor, beer and wine.

Officers said they found 30 cases of beer and two cases of assorted beer and whiskey at the Harm J. Huidekoper VFW Post here. Sixty-five cases of beer and three cases of whiskey were confiscated at the American Legion post in nearby Cochranton.

Carl K. Kyser, Theodore Gunn and Lynn Walker, of the VFW, were charged with illegal sale of liquor as was Joseph P. Albert of the Cochranton Legion Post. All pleaded innocent and were released on $500 bond, apiece.

The clubs were unable to secure liquor licenses because the club quota has been exceeded in Crawford county.

DEATH CAR—The driver of this 1938 Chevrolet, Charles C. Roberts of Warren, was killed when it crashed head-on into another car on Route 6 near the new State Highway Office last night. It was the first fatal traffic accident in Warren county in 1951. (Phil Coyle Photo).

Warren Man Loses Life And Prominent Pittsfield Couple Injured in Head-on Collision

A well known Warren man was killed and a prominent couple from Pittsfield seriously injured in the first Warren county fatal traffic accident of the year, which occurred Sunday evening about 8:50 o'clock on U. S. Route 6, at Starbrick, just west of the State Highway Department garage.

Charles C. Roberts, 1027 Pennsylvania avenue west, aged 34, died in the Warren General Hospital at 10:15 o'clock, from a fractured skull, crushed chest which ruptured the left lung, and other injuries, received when a 1938 Chevy sedan, he was operating, collided head-on with a 1950 Buick sedan, driven by Archie Kingsley, 49, of Pittsfield, who was accompanied by his wife Harriett, aged 40. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley are patients in the Warren General Hospital. Mrs. Kingsley, on the critical list, has a fracture of the left ankle, lacerations of the right leg, nose, right eye, fracture of the left clavicle and serious head injuries. Mr. Kingsley has a laceration to the scalp, possible fracture of the right wrist and a painful injury to the right knee.

The investigation made by Pvt. William Timmins, of the Warren barracks of the State Police, revealed that Roberts was en route east on the three-lane highway, and the Kingsleys were driving west toward their home in Pittsfield. State Police say that for some reason which will probably never be known, the Roberts car swerved from the outside east-bound lane across the center lane into the westbound section, directly in the path of the Kingsley car. Mr. Kingsley is reported to have explained that all he remembered was that "suddenly there was a car in front of him in his lane."

It appears that Mr. Kingsley pulled to the right as far as possible but was unable to avoid the collision.

It was learned that Mr. Roberts had taken his wife Rosetta, to Brookville during the afternoon, leaving Warren about two o'clock. Some time between four and five o'clock he started the return trip from Brookville. Efforts to trace his movements after that time have been made but it has not been learned what time he arrived back in the Warren area. He is believed to have been in Starbrick to visit friends who had moved from Starbrick to Warren over the weekend.

The impact of the two cars apparently was terrific, indicating that both were traveling at a speed of at least 30 or 40 miles an hour. It was difficult for rescuers to remove the injured to the Lutz-VerMilyea ambulance, which brought them to the hospital where they were admitted shortly after nine o'clock. The Kingsley car was taken to the Warren County Motors garage, and the Roberts' wreck was taken to Halle's garage.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission's weekly news roundup contains a report from Game Protector that may—or may not—shed a little light on all those reports from the southwestern end of the county concerning (1) a panther (2) a wolf-dog and (3) a what's-it.

Burdick said: "A year ago last September, Limestone township reported to be crowding with mountain lions or similar animals. I was called out there in the wee hours to listen to noises purportedly issuing from a 'panther' that was said to be 6 feet long and 175 pounds in weight."

"It seemed time to convince the people that their eyes and ears had deceived them. I set three steel traps. Three large gray foxes were taken in three days. There have been no reports of weird noises coming from that area since."

The services, arranged by the Warren County Ministerial Association, are built around the general theme, "Approaching the Cross."

The Rev. Milton G. Perry, pastor of First Baptist Church, presided at today's service, with the Rev. Fred T. Miller, Calvary Baptist minister, speaking on the topic, "The Steadfast Face." Special music was presented by a group from Calvary Baptist Church.

For tomorrow's noon-time service, The Rev. Nore Gustafson, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, and president of the ministerial group, will speak on "Lessons by the Way." Dan K. Walton, general secretary of the YMCA, will preside.

The Rev. Sprigg Harwood, of the Clarendon Methodist church, and the Rev. Roger D. Morey, pastor of Bethel Evangelical United Brethren church, will be the speakers for the services on Wednesday and Thursday.

These services start at 12:10 p. m. and conclude at 12:50 o'clock. On Good Friday, there will be a three-hour community worship service from noon to 3 p. m. in First Methodist church.

Special services in all churches Easter Sunday will conclude the Lenten season.

Observance of Holy Week got under way yesterday with churches throughout the county filled to capacity for Palm Sunday services. A large crowd also was on hand at First Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon when a beautiful Lenten cantata, "The Darkest Hour," was presented under direction of Carroll A. Fowler and chorus of nearly 50 voices representing various church choirs.

Soloists were Jane Sanford and Ione Maze, sopranos; Violet Borg, contralto; Robert Dietsch, tenor; Everett Borg, baritone; and Henry Baldensperger, bass.

Former Mayor O'Dwyer Makes Eagerly Awaited Appearance Before Committee

New York, March 19—(P)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer told the senate crime committee today the underworld had its own code system that meted out death sentences to violators of the gangland code.

O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico, described it as "a judicial set-up—a kangaroo court where they held trials, usually at night."

"We also found," he said, "that in certain sections of the country, there were men who carried out the orders of these courts, and there would be only one order—death, execution."

O'Dwyer said in many sections of the county "they had troops under one man who had authority to direct those troops."

"Albert Anastasia was the one who had authority to order the Brooklyn troops," he said. Anastasia was a suspect in a slaying attributed to Murder, Inc., Brooklyn crime syndicate. Anastasia escaped prosecution after the death of Abe Reles, a witness, in a mysterious plunge from a Coney Island hotel window in 1941.

Asked who was chairman of the board of directors in the underworld syndicate, O'Dwyer said: "It was rather a combination. There was no chief man in charge, a combination, an alliance."

O'Dwyer told his story of the virtual nation-wide Murder, Inc., after a sharp encounter with Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-N. H.).

The bitter exchange with Tobey came after the senator said O'Dwyer's version of Reles' death varied from that of a previous witness, Frank C. Bals, a former deputy police commissioner.

O'Dwyer defended Bals' record as a police officer, but Tobey described Bals as "A Flat Tire" whom O'Dwyer was attempting to defend.

At a meeting of the Warren-McKean-Patter-Cameron chapter of the Independent Association of PLCB employees held Sunday, March 18, in Eldred, further plans for a picnic of area employees during the summer were discussed. The meeting took place at the American Legion home.

A committee was appointed by President John Costello, manager of the Eldred Store, to contact legislative representatives in each of the chapter counties relative to bills before the legislature at the present time, dealing with arbitration of grievances and retirement benefits.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held in Bradford on April 22.

QUICKIES By Ken Reynolds

The northern middlewest was hanging on the ropes again today, virtually knocked out by another smashing blizzard.

From the appearance of many snow-blocked sections and the hardship of its victims, winter is still more like a lusty young arrival than a feeble, dying season.

Throughout the area many highways were blocked, planes were grounded and even some trains were stalled by mountainous snow drifts.

Although the fury of the storm was not as widespread as the two earlier blizzards that already had hit the region this month, it was more intense in spots. In southern Minnesota, southeastern South Dakota and northern Iowa highway traffic was blocked in many places.

Trains stalled in northern Iowa. The storm left as much as 19 inches of new snow in the area. Winds up to 45 miles an hour

Missing Bradford Doctor Is Suicide

Salamanca, N. Y., March 19—(P)—Cattaraugus County Coroner George Middleton gave a verdict of "drowning, apparently suicide" in the death of Dr. Luke D. Garvin, 48, prominent Bradford, Pa., physician.

Dr. Garvin's body was found yesterday in the Allegheny river near Salamanca. He had been missing since February 12. He was last seen when he left his office to go to church.

Foreign Ministers Prepare Showdown On Parley Agenda

Paris, March 19—(P)—The western deputy foreign ministers prepared today for a showdown with Russia's Andrei Gromyko on agenda proposals for a big-four conference.

If Gromyko shows no real change of heart toward accepting the agenda the west has modified and redrafted several times, a western official indicated, a move will be made to bring the talks to a close.

The deputies from the United States, Britain and France, he said, plan to see if the Russian, at their 13th meeting today (10 a. m. EST) has "any fresh instructions from Moscow."

As the deputies began their third week of talks here, they appeared no nearer agreement on the eastern and western versions of the main conference problem—now the major discussion topic will be phrased in the agenda.

Gromyko insists that demilitarization of Germany and reduction of armaments by the big four must be considered as separate items.

Smashing Blizzard Blocks Roads In Many Sections of Northern Middlewest

By The Associated Press

The northern middlewest was hanging on the ropes again today, virtually knocked out by another smashing blizzard.

The storm began Saturday and continued through most of Sunday. It marooned scores of farm families in western Minnesota. Civil Air Patrol pilots made more than 50 flights yesterday from Wheaton, Minn., to carry provisions to the isolated region and to take two sick farmers and a baby to hospitals.

In northern Iowa the storm caused the tightest traffic tie-up of the winter. About 40 or 50 counties were completely blocked Sunday by deep drifts which stalled an Illinois Central Railroad freight train.

The train, marooned near Carver, was rammed during the storm yesterday by another freight

A STRIKER'S DREAM

Last night I had a shocking dream
That filled me with dismay.
Our fighting men had gone on strike
Demanding higher pay.

They wanted overtime it seemed
For shedding their life's blood,
And shorter working hours
To be dying in the mud.

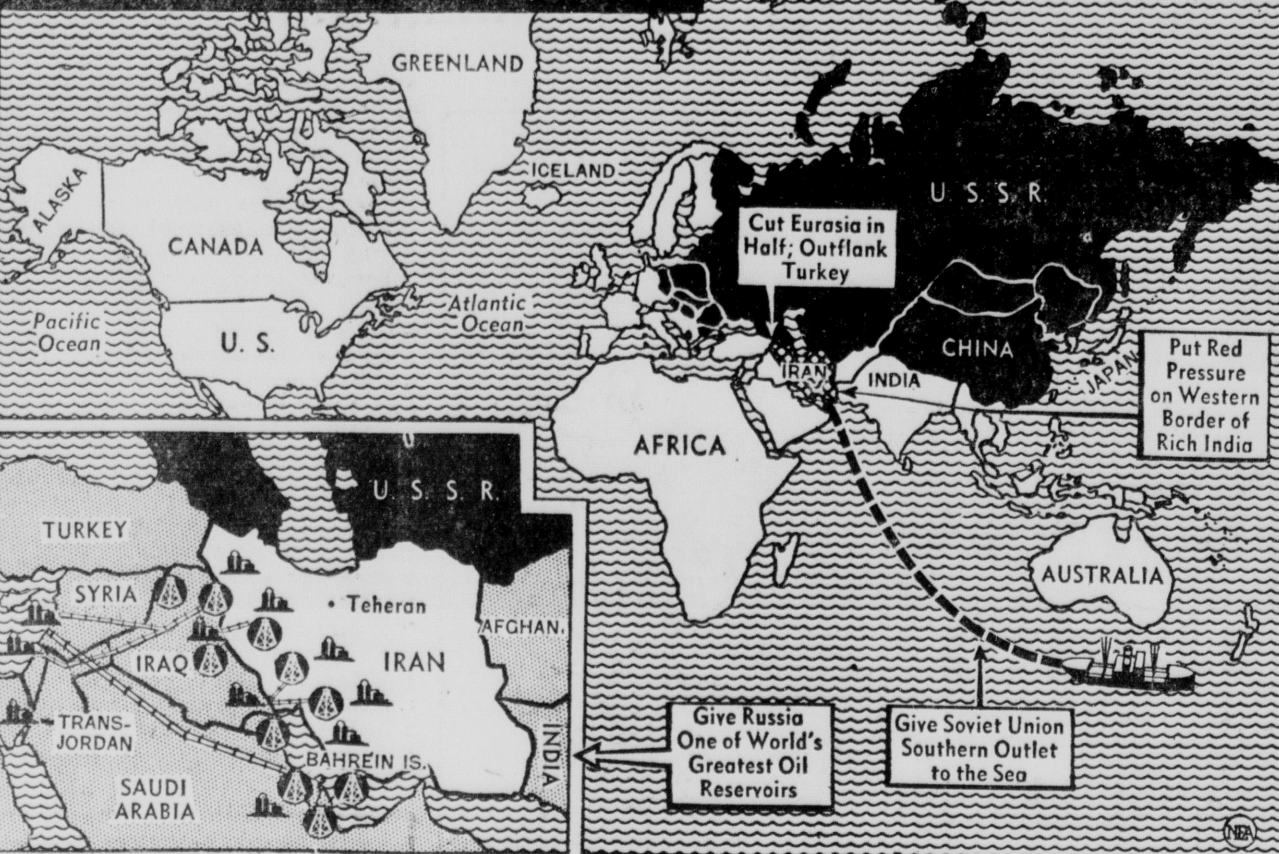

"How dare they strike,
The home front screamed,
"When we gave up so much,
Like candy bars and pleasure cars
And cigarettes and such.

The foe broke through the picket lines
And left a trail of graves,
And overnight our people,
All had been made slaves.

I like to hear our boys still fight
With liberty so near,
They weren't striking over there
They're striking over here.

WHY STALIN WANTS IRAN—

Control of This Rich, Middle-Eastern Country Would

Action of Iran's parliament in voting unanimously for government seizure of the nation's British-owned oil industry is considered a great triumph for the pro-Russian faction. The $582,000,000 Anglo-Iran Oil Company controls all Iran's oil wells and sells the output only to Western and pro-Western nations. Map above shows why the Kremlin wants not only Iranian oil (6.02 per cent of world output) but also seeks to bring the country into its orbit because of its strategic location.

Kahle at Scandia; Charles Camp on Cole Hill; and J. Clair Cowles near Lottsville. Jack went over the plan with each farmer and helped him arrange for applying the soil and water conserving practices as soon as possible.

Mike Kuzma, Columbus farmer, completed his farm plan this week.
While going over the farm with Mike, he said he wanted to get as far away from raising corn as possible so our talk naturally hit grassland farming. He is also planning on building a diversion to get rid of the wet condition around his buildings. No time is wasted when Mike decides on action so the diversion is staked and ready to build as soon as he can start work.

Bob Meabon, Sanford Corners, completed his conservation survey map to be used when he plans his farm in the near future.

Jim Locey, Veteran Agriculture
Instructor at Sugar Grove, had Bob Scott, SCS technician, stake out a field on his second farm for contour strip cropping. The strips will fit in below Jim's fourth diversion constructed two years ago.

Pond surveys and designs were made for Fred Jensen, Baker Hill, near Columbus, Mike Zurkan and Steve Mikrut of Swede Hollow, and Jim Parker of Bear Lake.
These ponds will be built for fire protection, recreation and where needed, stock water.

If they have not already done so, now is the time for all good
Warren County farmers to start

Consumer Demands Given as Reason For Slight Increase in Retail Egg Prices

By The Associated Press
Retail egg prices rose one to four cents a dozen in many stores this week, while several fresh vegetables were a little lower as shipments from southern and southwestern growing areas increased.

But otherwise the general food price level appeared to be holding about unchanged from last week-end. Most meat, poultry and dairy products were steady.

Spokesmen for large egg distributors attributed the slowly rising egg prices to lively consumer demand.

"People must be buying more eggs because of high meat prices, for there certainly are plenty of eggs around," one market authority said.

Heavy buying of poultry, particularly broiling and frying chickens, also was said to reflect the competitive price situation. The poultry and egg national board reported that lightweight chicken supplies are running 15 to 20 per cent larger than a year ago and being readily absorbed in the market, with prices only a few cents a pound higher than in mid-March last year.

Lower-priced in most produce bins this week are grapefruit, lima beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes. Grapes, pears and celery were generally a little higher.

The Office of Price Stabilization announced this week that restaurant prices will go under a new control order at the beginning of April.

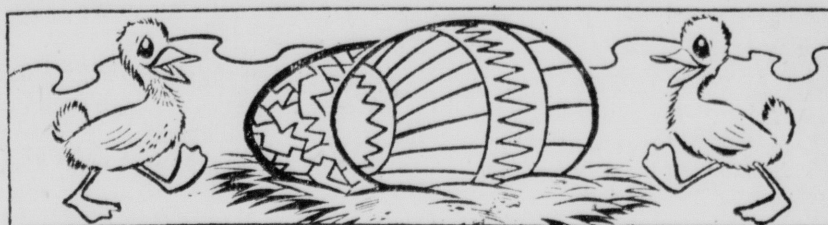

Officials of the OPS say the restaurant order is part of a general food control pattern which is expected to emerge before the end of the month. As food prices are stabilized, these sources said, restaurant prices will be steadied as a result.

The Agriculture Department reported that consumers spent an average of 5.6 per cent of their disposable incomes (after charges like taxes) for meats in 1950. If consumers follow that same general spending pattern this year, and don't try to buy a lot more meat because other goods are scarcer, then meat prices may drop below ceiling levels during periods of heavy seasonal supply, the report indicated.

Coffee imports into this country dropped 14 per cent in 1950 because of consumer price resistance and unusually large carryover stocks at the end of 1949, the department announced. But the National Coffee Association said coffee arrivals in January and February this year were greater than in the same two months of 1949—which turned out to be a record year. "The outlook for easier prices is still not too good," the NCA added, "because demand and supply factors are too nearly in balance."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

With Easter approaching we have been wondering if (as has been the case in the past few years) that there will be the competition between several of our largest churches as to which can boast of the largest and most beautiful display of Easter Lilies.

In recent years the display has been so large that the beauty and magnificence of the flowers has been lost, banked so closely that in the dimness of the church and to that part of the audience seated at a distance the lilies resembled a lovely bank of newly fallen snow or an altar draped in snowy linen. We love flowers and do think that lilies placed in our churches at this time of year are especially fitting and should be in every church and also on other Sundays too. But why so many of them and this competition, though it may be of a warm and friendly nature? Of course some of the lilies are sent to hospitals and to shut-ins—very good. But what about the ones who are among the "forgotten people?" I refer to the needy, the sad, the lonely and discouraged who may be outside the "Gates" of the church.

We have a war on and many homes in our community would enjoy a bit of help or a cheery visit from someone who would be willing to spend a little time. Also, we have many in our hospitals and home (especially the Rouse Home) who lack the fresh fruits and juices they should have, and who have no relative or even a friend to visit them. And no doubt every church in our town and community has one or more families who have sons in the service perhaps laid up in a hospital or a sanitarium and how welcome would be a box or basket, not alone for its contents but for the lovely thought shown.

Let us have less lilies in our church this year and give instead to those who need our cheer and help.

This is what our Master would approve of.

"I was hungry and ye fed me not; sick and ye ministered unto me; in prison and ye visited me not; naked and ye clothed me not." (—But you did buy Easter Lilies, which I did not see.)

Yes we are sorry to say that even our churches are losing their spirit of helpfulness in this modern day.

Dear Ed:

The little announcement by Alcoholics Anonymous in last night's Times-Mirror came as a reminder that I had been intending for some weeks now to drop you a note about this organization. During the past few months, I have seen these men in action in a number of instances:—(the people they were trying to help did not happen to be members of my church)—and have been very favorably impressed by the technique employed and by the earnestness and sincerity of the men of Alcoholics Anonymous. Because of the nature of their contribution to our community life the great body of citizens cannot know of their unselfish and devoted efforts in behalf of men and women who are victims of alcoholism. We ought, though, to be grateful for what they are doing. May I not, through you, convey my deep appreciation for them?

Very truly yours,
Robert S. Steen

WHEN SILENCE IS GOLDEN

To Frank Costello, our thanks. Who'd have thought society would unexpectedly find itself indebted to this monarch of the slot machine, the galloping domino, the faltering hay burner? But we are.

When things grew troublesome for Mr. Costello before the Kefauver Committee in New York, he was taken down with something like a bad cold in the throat and walked out. For him, the rest was silence.

This country could do with some silence. A little quiet would look good on some of our worst friends. For example:

The toastmaster in his umpteenth affirmation, "And furthermore I say to you." The master of ceremonies with his "And now a little number by a little girl" (as if nobody and nothing ever were big in show business). The wife who asks hubby what became of that fin she lent him for last night's poker party. The dentist who wads your mouth with cotton and then asks what you think of the Iranian debacle.

All warblers of singing commercials. The secretary whose date always has her on the office phone just when you want to dictate an angry letter. Anyone who dictates an angry letter. All associates who tell us how to cure our sinusitis. Our neighbor who turns from the wheel to gab while driving 50 miles an hour. The salesgirl who calls your wife "Dearie."

The boss after we've pulled an innocent boner. All new fathers displaying cribside snapshots. All new fathers. All fathers. Bridge players who insist "I never saw such cards." Bridge players. The daughter who hasn't a thing to wear to the prom. Chaparones at the prom. Telephoners the day after the prom.

Everyone who is trying to stop smoking. Everyone who declares he or she smokes too much. Pop corn eaters behind us at the movies. Most movies. Most TV comics. And certainly the writers of long wheezes like this.

To all of them we recommend a study of Mr. Costello's vocal collapse. May they see the light and take daily setting up exercises in silence. Might call such exercises Costellothenics.

We note that a single medium tank now costs $120,000 and a single heavy bombers costs around $4,000,000. Seems as if inflation has made war materiel so expensive that civilization can't afford to destroy itself.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

THE REV. HAROLD V. LINDQUIST, Youngsville Ev. United Brethren

CHRISTIANS MUST ANSWER

Text: "And when Jesus entered Jerusalem, all the city was stirred saying, 'Who is this?'"—Matt. 21:10.

During all these days of the Lenten period we have been traveling again with Jesus, as He faced the events leading up to things which He encountered during Holy Week. His acclaim on Palm Sunday, His betrayal, death and resurrection. In the words of the Palm Sunday lesson as given to us by Matthew there is a searching, present day relevance to the question, "Who is this?" Some among the multitude had an answer, "This is the prophet Jesus from Nazareth of Galilee." Others added "Hosanna to the Son of David Blessed be He who comes in the name of the Lord!"

But all of this was an incomplete reply, for all who spoke the words lived on the other side of Gethsemane, Calvary, and the resurrection. We live today on this side. When men raise the cry today, "Who is this?" we know a fuller answer. The Christian's testimony is, "This is Jesus the Christ, My Lord and My God!"

This is the Christian's answer to the query, "Who is this?" It is this answer that we must give in no uncertain terms of men about us are ever to realize the joy of knowing Christ in all of His fullness. It is this answer that Christians must give if the tragic drift of humanity in its downward trend is to be arrested. This must be our Palm Sunday and Easter witness. A handful of Galileans made Jerusalem ask, "Who is this?" We, too, can cause our world to raise the same question if the Living Christ is real to us.

Turn your eyes upon Jesus, look full in His wonderful face, And the things of earth will grow strangely dim, in the light of His glory and grace.

Turn your thoughts unto Jesus, think deep of His comforting love,

And the thoughts of sin and of self and strife, will be lost in that rapture above.

Give your heart unto Jesus, cast each heavy burden aside, And the joy and peace of His presence near will enter and ever abide

'No, Thanks, I Have Plenty!'

Here And There

This 'N That: If plans launched by the Jaycees committee in charge materialize along the lines already proposed the dedication of the boulder to be erected at the entrance of War Memorial Field will not only be the highlight of the Fourth of July celebration but will be one of the most outstanding events the community has witnessed in many years. . . . The largest galaxy of wrestling stars to be assembled under one roof since the last "carnival of champions" show in Buffalo will strut their stuff this evening at Coliseum when Promotor Frank Scaglione's star-studded bill will include Lord Blears, British heavyweight champion, Lucky Simunovich, Ted Christ and his badman brother, Vic Christy, Mr. America and Shiek Ali, the colorful Arab, with either Vic Christy or Simunovich facing Blears in the main go set for 8:30. . . . Officers will be elected at the meeting of the Warren Lodge of Elks Tuesday evening with Leonard "Buck"

Whiteshot scheduled to move into the chair of the exalted ruler succeeding Ray Weigle who will soon be elevated into the ranks of the "P. E. R.'s". . . . Supt. E. P. Adams of the Pennsylvania Railroad Northern Division, has denied published reports the line is considering the removal of the last remaining passenger train between Oil City and Corry. . . . Members of Coudersport Consistory residing in the Warren area have received copies of the Maundy Thursday evening program to be presented by the Rose Croix (18th degree) team, at the consistory building in Coudersport, the music for which will be provided by the Kane Women's Choral club under the direction of Mrs. Mayne Schreiber. . . . A dozen members of Warren Consistory No. 63 were in Titusville Saturday evening attending a divisional meeting and dinner honoring Raymond F. Hoffman, right eminent grand commander, William E. Yeager, right worshipful grand master, and other high state officials in the Grand Lodge of Masons and the Grand Commandery. . . . Herbert Poppleton, 56, well known amateur magician, who dropped dead while presenting his act of a magic show at the Scottish Rite Temple Jamestown, Friday night, will be remembered as one of the entertainers who appeared on the program at the opening of the Youth Canteen in Warren Saturday evening, January 27; Poppleton, had just called a spectator from the audience to assist with an encore trick when he turned to the man and said "I feel dizzy", sank to the floor, and Coroner Samuel T. Bowers, a member of the audience, said Poppleton died instantly. . . .

NEW PRESSURE RELIEF VALVE FOR HOOVER DAM WEIGHS 65,000 POUNDS

PROFESSOR'S PET DOG HELPS COEDS MOVE 37,000 BOOKS TO NEW LIBRARY

SLIGHTLY OVER-SIZE—A workman welds together sections of a giant pressure relief valve discharge liner being installed in the power plant at Hoover Dam on the Colorado River. It weighs 65,000 pounds, stands 26 feet high and is 14 feet in diameter. The liner's bulk had to be shipped in sections.

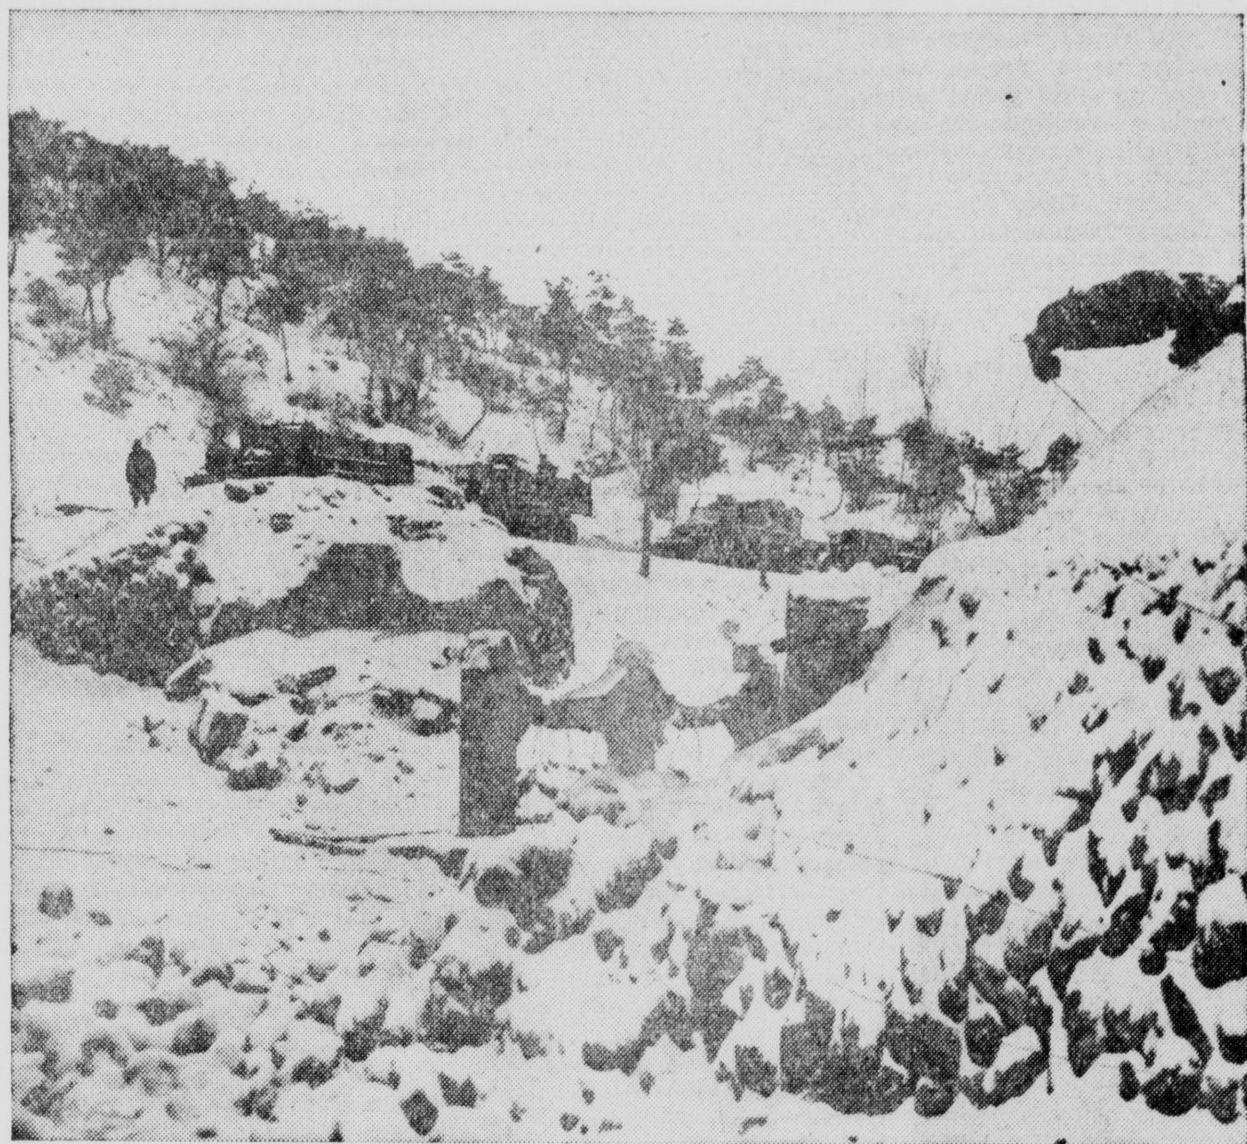

HEAVY LOAD FOR A STORK—When Mrs. Benjamin Zappala, of the Bronx, N.Y., gave birth to triplets, they were rushed to the hospital in three specially-equipped portable incubators. Watching them are, left to right: Nurse Jeanne Dunn and Baby A; Sister Miriam Anne and Baby B, and Nurse Margaret Loucks and Baby C, the smallest, who weighs a mere three pounds, 15 ounces.

A BREATH OF AIR—Rising temperatures in Frankfurt, Germany, are bringing out the first signs of spring, and the local frauleins are enjoying it. These two girls may be admiring the scenery on a clear, cool day, but one of them has her umbrella along just to be on the safe side.

TEA TIME—These soldiers with the British Brigade serving in Korea take time out for their afternoon tea. The quagmire they're standing in is a fair example of the country's winter setting for an al fresco repast. (U.S. Army Photo from Acme.)

FOLLOWING THE SUPPLY LINE—A UN truck convoy bypasses a knocked-out bridge on the central Korean front and crosses over a frozen river. The snow and mud combine to offer as much resistance to the Allied advance as the Chinese Communists.

SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF—Little Chris Durocher, son of Giant manager Leo Durocher, displays a wide gap in his gums to two playmates at the Giants' training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla. Looking impressed are Bill Rigney, center, son of the New York infielder, and David Jones, son of Giant hurler Sheldon Jones, who may be a bit jealous of Chris' maturity.

A LOVELY SIGHT TO SEE—Lissome Toni Gaines finds the edge of a diving board a grand place for a sun bath in Cypress Gardens, Fla. It brings her closer to Old Sol and affords easy access to the cooling water. It also gives all of us something easy on the eyes.

ALMOST IN THE BAG—Lawrence Potter, 3, was leaving New York to fly to Bermuda with his parents. His toy lamb presented something of a problem until the airline stewardess presented him with a bag to carry it in.

EVERY BIT HELPS—Goldie, a professor's dog, is doing her share as 300 girl students of Keuka College, in Keuka Park, N.Y., move 37,000 books from an old building to the school's new library. Working with Goldie are, left to right: Jean Ousterhout, Kingston, N.Y.; Kathleen Dustin, Westfield, N.J., and Mary Donlon, Herkimer, N. Y. Goldie's the center of the literary movement at Keuka.

INDISCREET—Schiaparelli, in Paris, has introduced this red taffeta cocktail dress that is not quite discreet. The onion-skin taffeta is quilted for an elbow-length cape to cover bare shoulders, and has a cap to match the ensemble.

ROLLING IN—Elsie Nichols and Charles Thomas are alarmed at the flood of letters received at the St. James Theater in New York. They are all from ticket purchasers to Rodgers' and Hammerstein's new musical comedy, "The King and I," starring Gertrude Lawrence. Based on the book, "Anna and the King of Siam," the play will soon open on Broadway.

Carthage College Chorus Will Sing In Warren Tuesday

Celebrating its Silver Jubilee year, the 60-voice a cappella choir of Carthage College will be heard in a beautiful Lenten concert in the sanctuary of First Methodist church at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Under the direction of Prof. Elmer Hanke, the choir is on tour to the eastern seaboard, where it will sing at the magnificent Eastern dawn service in Radio City Music Hall.

Acclaimed by critics as one of the "great choirs of the nation", the Carthage group will make spring appearances in many major musical centers, among them being the Chicago Opera House, and the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C.

Enjoying a reputation for its rendition of a wide range of church music, the choir's repertoire ranges from the ancient church melodies to the compositions of modern and contemporary composers. This year's program includes selections by Darius Milhaud, Norman Lockwood, Leland Sateren, F. Melius Christiansen (founder of the famed St. Olaf Choir), Martin Shaw and R. Dean Shure, together with such old masters as J. S. Bach and Victoria. There is no admission charge for tomorrow night's concert, but an offering will be taken.

Kahrl, retired minister of the American Sunday School Union, gave an inspirational talk on "What Easter Should Mean To Us". Refreshments were served by Grace Johnson and her committee.

TODAY is pay day for all the folks who have classified ads.

THE WAY TO CALVARY

Before Pilate delivered Jesus to be crucified, the Nazarene was taken to be scourged by the soldiers of the governor. Tied to a pillar, He was given forty lashes. It was a murderous punishment and left Him barely able to stand.

Then He was crowned with thorns. The soldiers plaited a crown of coarse thorns and pressed it on His brow. Putting a purple cloak on His shoulders, and a reed in His hand for a scepter, they knelt to Him and mocked Him as a king.

Finally restoring His own garments, the soldiers led Him into the street where He was forced to kneel, and a crude, heavy wooden cross was placed on His shoulder. The journey to Calvary began.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

MANY housewives could eat well for less if they used cuts of lamb that go beyond the leg and loin chops. Shoulder chops, for instance, are thrifter and just as good to eat as loin. Lamb neck slices can be braised or stewed, lamb shoulder roasted and lamb shanks braised to be served like miniature legs of lamb.

Thriftest of all and in keeping with spring is breast of lamb. It is just the cut for a spring lamb stew, combining meat, gravy and vegetables in an inexpensive and nutritious dish.

These two recipes will help battered budgets.

Spring Lamb Stew (4 servings)

Two pounds breast of lamb, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons lard, ¾ cups water, 4 carrots, quartered, 3 small white onions, peeled, 4 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered, 3 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Have lamb cut in 1½-inch pieces. Combine flour, 1 teaspoon of the salt and pepper. Roll meat in this mixture, then brown well in the hot lard in a large deep kettle. Add water, bring to a boil, cover and simmer for 1 hour.

Skim off surface fat. Add remaining 1 teaspoon salt, carrots, onion and potatoes; cook until vegetables are tender, about 20 minutes.

Remove meat and vegetables to hot platter. Thicken gravy and pour over meat and vegetables. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

Braised Lamb Shanks (4 servings)

Four lamb shanks, 1 clove garlic, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 3 tablespoons lard, ¾ cups water, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco.

Rub shanks with cut clove of garlic. Combine flour, salt and paprika; sprinkle over lamb shanks. Heat lard in large, heavy kettle; brown shanks on all sides. Add water and Tabasco; simmer about 1 to 1½ hours until tender.

Remove to hot platter; skim off excess fat. Thicken gravy; return shanks to gravy; simmer 5 minutes.

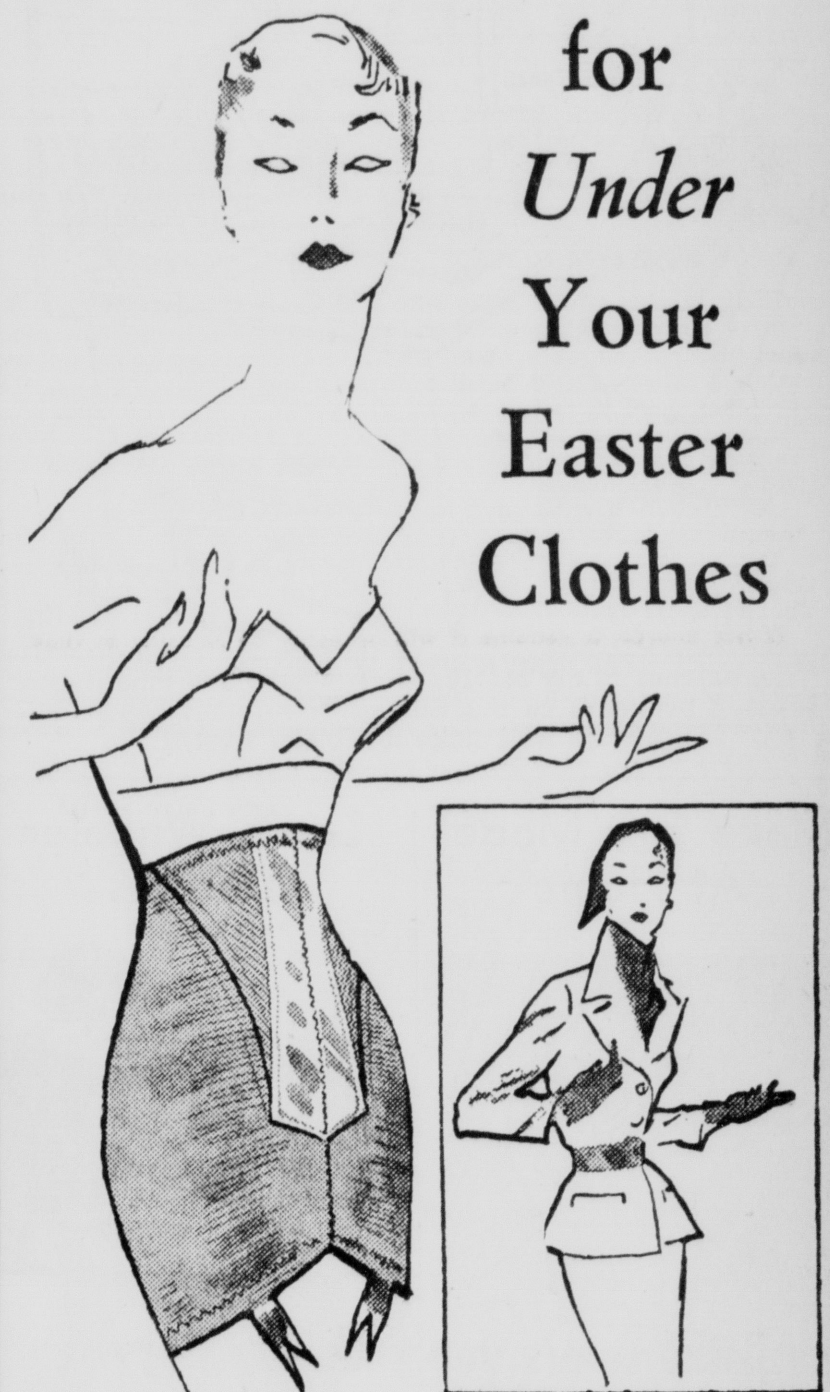

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Tomato juice, malt-flavored cereal, toasted rolls, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Canned pear and cheese salad, watercress sandwiches, chocolate cake, tea, milk.

DINNER: Braised lamb shanks, rice, buttered green peas, grapefruit and orange sections on water cress with French dressing, bread, butter or fortified margarine, meringue topped pudding, coffee, milk.

Chapter 30
ELAINE RUHL gasped. Caldwell nodded.

"Yes, it was as simple as that. We must remember that Faraday was not one who believed in the fundamental good of society and the right of law and order. He was an embittered man, one who had been frustrated in the main desire of his life, who had had to fight a particularly unyielding and unrelenting society for the right to live and read and dream. After all, hadn't his creative and scholastic desires been vanquished, and hadn't he been forced into his way of life? He thought so. Knowing the way he reasoned, his decision to fight, to kill the man who threatened his success and comfort, becomes understandable," Caldwell paused. "So Faraday killed Lawrence Straw."

"He was in Michigan when Straw was killed?" Phelan muttered.

"Then as a further protective measure against society," Caldwell went on ignoring Phelan's comment, "he also killed John Niles Thomson, who was a book-lover, scholarly man, of peaceful and temperate disposition. I doubt that Thomson was even well-acquainted with Faraday, although he had been associated with the Anchor Book Store on an honorary manner. Why kill Professor Thomson, then?"

Caldwell shook his head.

"Frankly, I don't know," he admitted. "I try to tell myself that the great friendship which existed between Professor Thomson and myself was not a factor in his death, but I suspect that Faraday feared that Thomson might mention, during the course of one of our informal talks, a bit of information which he accidentally had discovered. Rather than gamble on Thomson's silence, he killed him."

Caldwell's emotion was felt in every word he spoke, and he had to stop and press his lips tightly together for a moment before continuing.

"It is neither my right nor my purpose to judge a fellow man, for, as a trained psychologist, my task is one of interpretation. But, as much as I'm revolted by the unscrupulous and coldly reasoned murders committed by this man, I can't help thinking that, had he been given the right opportunity by a more understanding society, he might have become a useful and brilliant part of the literary world."

"How could he kill Straw when he was in Michigan?" Phelan asked in a louder voice.

"Ah, yes," Caldwell looked at Phelan and nodded. "His alibi was that he boarded a lake steamer to St. Joe, Michigan, not returning until too late to have murdered Straw."

"That's right," Phelan averred. "I checked—and he was on that boat. He positively went to St. Joe, and he couldn't have come back except by the same boat, which didn't return until eleven o'clock that night. He couldn't have made it in time by train—and he didn't come by plane. Nobody resembling Faraday was on a return flight to Chicago that day."

"I invited Mr. Trask purser of that ship, to join us this evening. Suppose we hear what he has to say," Caldwell suggested. "Mr. Trask, do you remember John Faraday?" "Yes, sir, I do," Trask answered.

"Would you mind describing him to us?"

"Nossir," the purser coughed. "I mean, I don't mind, sir. This Faraday came on board about nine o'clock and I remember him as clearly as I do my own father. Sort of reminded me of the old man, he did. Old, you know, and bent over as though he wasn't very strong. I wasn't busy when he came aboard, and I personally checked him on and helped him with his hat and parcel. He was carrying his hat in his hand, and he had a package—a box under his arm."

"Do you usually notice so many details about your passengers?" Caldwell asked.

"Nossir. But this Faraday was unusual, and, not being busy, I had plenty of time to notice him."

"I see. I suppose it was his age which particularly impressed you?"

"At first, yes," Mr. Trask admitted with a show of confidence, "but there were some little reasons, too. I noticed his carrying the hat because his head was as bald as a bronze binnacle. You'd think a guy without any hair would keep his head covered, but this guy Faraday was carrying his hat in his hand, like it was 'sum' and he was too warm."

"Another thing, he had a cabin ticket, which most old people don't buy for a trip across the lake. It ain't a long trip and there's plenty of places for them to sit and rest without wasting money on a cabin, you know. It's the young couples who usually want privacy." He hesitated and his ears reddened still more. "I ain't saying what the young ones have in mind, 'cause that ain't any of my business, but I am saying that old fellows like this John Faraday don't usually buy that kind of ticket—and that's how I happened to notice him particularly."

"Excellent," Caldwell said. "There's no doubt in your mind then that he boarded your ship on the morning of Thursday, October 12th?"

"Nossir."

"Your post is at the gangway where people must come aboard?"

"How long did you remain there?"

"Until we cast off."

"And he didn't leave the ship before it sailed?"

"Positively not, sir. Like I told the police, he couldn't have gotten off without me noticing."

"Then, if for any reason he wished to return to shore before sailing time, he'd have had to pass you and go down the gangway?"

"That's right," Trask nodded vigorously.

"To people ever return to shore after once boarding the ship?"

"Certainly, sir. Dozens of them do, every trip. They like to get their bags and luggage aboard early, then stand on dock with their friends until just before the ship leaves. We take their tickets when they come on board with their luggage; then, if they want to go ashore again we give them a special ticket which they have to give me when they get back on."

"He shook his head with certainty. 'This Faraday didn't leave after he got on, no matter how you figure.'"

"I think he did," Caldwell contradicted. "I think he left the ship before it sailed, and never made that particular trip to Michigan."

Caldwell held up his hand. "Let me explain. Faraday didn't leave the ship, but he didn't make the trip to St. Joe either. With a movement so unexpected and swift that I didn't realize what was happening, Caldwell leaned over his desk, snatched his fingers into Richard Starr Flecker's mane of white hair, and jerked the entire head of hair from his head."

Flecker, too surprised to prevent Caldwell's action, shouted, and grabbed—but too late. Caldwell held up the white wig triumphantly, and pointed to the shining bald plate which it had covered.

"Ladies, and gentlemen," he said gravely, "may I present Mr. John Faraday, alias Mr. Richard Starr Flecker?"

Coroner Ed Lowrey announced today that unless further developments justified, there would be no inquest.

Troops - to - Europe Talks Face Delay Over Easter Week

Washington, March 19—(AP)—A prospective Easter walk-out to-day threatened to foul up senate leaders' hopes for quick action on a troops-to-Europe resolution.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.), called for speedy passage of pending resolutions to "lift the morale of our Allies in the North Atlantic and create unity and confidence among the American people."

Senator McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, said he hopes the senate will agree to limit debate and vote on the issue by Thursday. He promised an Easter recess if that happens.

But Senator Malone (R-Nev.), an opponent of the resolutions, predicted to a reporter that a walk-out of senators will leave the senate stranded without a quorum before the weekend and will shut off any action for several days after that.

8 that Rowe urged him to resign his post under circumstances that would make Dunham "the goat" of charges the RFC had yielded to an influence ring in making government loans.

Rowe told the banking subcommittee, headed by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), he is entitled to a finding "that an exhaustive investigation of my conduct proves I have acted in a perfectly ethical and legal manner."

The subcommittee, in a report to the senate last month, had made much of Rowe's friendship with men the group named as members of an influence ring. It also had cited a loan to a firm in which Rowe is a large stockholder as evidence that he had benefited from favoritism. The loan was made and paid off not long before Rowe joined the RFC board Oct. 3, 1950.

"Not one of you gentlemen, I am sure," Rowe said in his statement, "wants to be guilty of maligning a person by innuendo, garbled and distorted reports, or half truths."

Another director, Walter E. Cosgriff, in a statement prepared for the subcommittee, declared he has seen no evidence of an influence ring operating around RFC since he took office last Oct. 12. He said he considers the other board members to be "honest and capable" men. The subcommittee has never criticized Cosgriff.

Former Mayor O'Dwyer Makes Eagerly Awaited

O'Dwyer, obviously angry, declared he was entitled to a respectful hearing. A brief recess was called, then the former mayor returned with his story of the underworld court system.

The national television audience for today's hearing was estimated at 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 persons by WPIX, the New York News station which is originating the telecasts for itself as well as other stations.

The audience in the greater New York area was estimated as 4,500,000 to 5,000,000. The hearings are being telecast in 19 cities.

Just before O'Dwyer took the stand, the committee extended a "cordial invitation" to Governor Thomas E. Dewey to make any statement he described before the committee.

President Getting First Hand Report

The president is worried about a committee's approved resolution which would require congressional approval of the shipment of troops to Europe beyond the four divisions already promised Eisenhower.

The president has been having weekly five-way telephone hook-ups conferences with his congressional "big four" since his flight here March 2.

This will be the last of such conferences. He is flying back to Washington Thursday, leaving the Boca Chica Naval Air Station at 2 p. m.

the line June 25 and touched off the current fighting. United Nations forces pushed them back across the parallel.

Then the Allies were forced south of the line by overwhelming masses of Chinese Reds who came to the aid of the North Koreans.

Now, the U. N. was rolling northward once more, in search of withdrawing Chinese and Red North Korean forces.

Whether the U. N. would drive back across 38 was a knotty problem before the world's diplomats and military leaders.

Boom Is Launched For Ike and Taft

Washington, March 19—(AP)—A Republican National committee man kept Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the presidential picture today in the face of the general's fresh denial of political aspirations.

Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, said in a telephone interview he wants Republicans in his state to look over Eisenhower and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) before they decide whom to support for the 1952 presidential nomination.

As a part of this plan, Summerfield said he plans to invite Taft to Michigan for a speaking date soon and hopes to get Eisenhower later.

Michigan cast 41 votes for Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) in the first two ballots in the 1948 convention but swung to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York on the third, when he was nominated.

Eisenhower broke his recent rule of silence on political matters over the week-end to deny a radio commentator's report that he might be recalled from his job as commander of the North Atlantic defense forces by mid-summer in 1952 to be "available" for a presidential nomination.

ERIE COUNTY FARMER IS FOUND A SUICIDE

Union City, March 19—(AP)—Deputy Coroner H. L. Musser said William T. Southworth, 73, Erie county farmer who fired a shotgun blast at his wife last week, killed himself yesterday.

Southworth's body was discovered behind a neighbor's barn. A shotgun was nearby. Musser said Southworth entered his wife's bedroom last Monday and fired at her. She was not wounded and jumped from the bed. Southworth fired a short time later. A police guard was placed at the Southworth home after the incident.

WIDE SEARCH IS ON FOR MISSING BOY

Murdocksville, March 19—(AP)—A haggard father and state police today led two posers in a search through rugged wooded hills surrounding Racoon creek for an eight-year-old boy missing nearly 24 hours.

The searchers feared the boy, David Lee Haecox, may have fallen into swollen Racoon creek or len one of the numerous mine shafts in the area near the West Virginia border.

David was last seen with his younger brother, Geoffrey, five. The younger boy said David told him he was going "down by the creek" to play.

State-wide Class A Scholastic Basketball Tourney Nears End

Harrisburg, March 18—(AP)—The lineup of Class A regional semi-finalists will be completed tonight as Swoyersville meets Bloomsburg in the race for the PIAA State basketball title.

One jump ahead of the other seven contenders are the Allentown canaries of district 11 who have already secured a position in the eastern finals on March 28. Allentown ended 19-game winning streak of Radnor (district 1) Saturday night at Penn Palestra in a 50-48 triumph in the opening eastern inter-district game. Farrell eliminated Somerset's district 5 representatives, 61-35, on the same night in Pittsburgh. Sharpville (district 10) took Clearfield (9) Friday night, 46-45, in overtime.

Once-beaten Chambersburg, the district 3 champion, draws the Bloomsburg-Swoyersville winner Wednesday night at the Hershey arena in the only Eastern semi-final.

The west offers two regional semi-finals on the same night. Sharpville of district 10 opposes the strong Westinghouse bulldogs of district 8 (Pittsburgh) at the Pitt Pavilion. Farrell's Steelers, champions of district 7 (Wpial), are matched against Johnstown's district 6 representatives at the War Memorial arena in Johnstown.

Regional finals are carded for March 28 with the state championship game being played March 31 at Penn Palestra in Philadelphia.

On tonight's schedule, Southmont of district 6 goes against Fredonia of district 10 in the class C western championship game. The same two teams met for the title last year with Fredonia coming out on top.

Mount Joy of District 3 won the eastern title Saturday night by stopping Pringle of District 2 59-57. There is no state title game in Class C.

Class B action resumed tomorrow night with Kutztown's defending eastern champions from district 3 meeting Hellertown of District 11 and Clarks summit of district 12 opposing Meadood of District 2 in the east. The western semi-finals send unbeaten Cresson (6) against Avalon (7) and unbeaten Mercer (10) against Slippery Rock (9).

Local Star Gets Lively Send-off

One of Warren's contributions to organized baseball this season left Friday evening for Albany, Ga., to join the Allentown team of the Interstate League in spring training, but not without an exciting farewell that required quick-thinking and action on the part of a couple of pals to make it possible for him to keep his appointment.

William Russell Brown, better known to his many friends and local baseball fans as "Bill", son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown, 111 Center street, who has been seen in action on local teams in the past few years, including the Glendoras, Merchants and Forge, was signed during the winter by Allentown, farm club for the St. Louis Cardinals. He was to leave Friday night for Washington and thence to Georgia. However, the ball player was under the impression that the leaving time of the train was 8:14, and when he arrived at the station shortly before that time, he discovered that it had left at 7:49, leaving time in effect since two local trains were abandoned several weeks ago.

A couple friends who had accompanied him to the station, came to the rescue, and the three of them started by car to overtake the eastbound train. They missed it at Kane, but managed to overtake it at St. Marys.

It is expected Brownie will be tried out in one of several positions, including the outfield and backstop.

Williams Already in Rare Form As Bosox' Biggest Headache

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla.—(NEA)—Free of the Joe McCarthy restraint, there is much more fun in the Red Sox camp than there was the past three springs.

Baseball was strictly business with Marse Joe.

It is still a game in Steve O'Neill's book.

The talk centers chiefly around Lou Boudreau and the two pitchers from the White Sox—Ray Scarborough and Bill Wight.

Boudreau looks great bouncing around shortstop, and the Boston Americans already look toward the former manager of the Indians as their natural leader on the field.

Junior Stephens and Johnny Pesky are going to find it difficult to keep the most valuable player of three years ago out of the left side of the infield.

You hear very little of Ted Williams, outside of the noise made by his big bat.

You sense that the club is beginning to wonder whether it can win with the Great Individualist.

Williams' left forearm and bicep is a half inch smaller in circumference than the right as the result of the broken elbow suffered when he crashed into the Comiskey Park wall during the All-Star Game early last July. As recently as last winter, the most remarkable left-hand hitter of his time couldn't completely straighten out his left arm.

He still complains of pain, but daily push-ups are doing wonders, and there isn't anything wrong with baseball's mightiest swing.

WILLIAMS already is in mid-season form in another respect, too—as the Bosox' big thump—ing headache.

His feud with the Boston sports writers continues unabated, although they get along handsomely with everybody else. They even put up with the Harvard football team.

"Sure, I said I'd quit," is the latest quote from Williams, who reputedly is the highest paid man in the game at a reported $125,000 a year.

"I'm sick of it."

"I'm sick of looking at a lot of yokel newspapermen in Boston."

"My hitting depends on my arm. If it hurts now, you can imagine how it hurt when I came back last season, but they wouldn't get off me."

"If I had enough money, I'd be down in Cuba among the bonefish. But you write that and they'll call me a spoiled child. Spit on them."

Williams certainly knows how to win friends and influence people—one way or another.

Williams might look at his record, other than his batting figures.
